OPTIONS HAWK DAILY MARKET 9/9/2019

Market Review: Stocks were higher overnight into the week ahead of the ECB and as trade tensions have recently moderated. Stocks gave up some gains early but the real story was the rotations with a shift out of the high growth Software names trading at extended valuations continuing, and managers eyeing a move back to cyclicals on better China outcome and potential global PMIs bottoming and near a recovery. The Russell showed strength and worked out of a key basing pattern. The NASDAQ struggled as Tech came under pressure and hit day lows around 2:30pm. The schedule remains light into tomorrow and saw Bonds/Gold bounce in the afternoon with thoughts we could see more Macro volatility, the ECB also eyed this week.

Resistance	Support
2,945	2,900
2,975	2,845
3,000	2,820

Options Action Trends: There was plenty of positioning to start the week on both sides, a lot of the weak names continue to draw size put buying, and seeing Software bears continue, while safety areas like quick-service saw call buys with MCD and YUM. We saw out buys in industrial distributors GWW, AIT, MSM and FAST.

Unusual Call Buying in Bottomline Tech as Valuation Turns Attractive

Ticker/Price: EPAY ($40.60)

Analysis:

Bottomline Tech (EPAY) unusual early buys 930 October $40 calls $2.20 to $2.60 and activity now quickly over 1000, a name lacking any other notable open interest. EPAY shares went parabolic in 2018 and pulled back in Q4 and have continued to slip in 2019, now sitting near the 144 week EMA and showing some bullish weekly RSI divergences. The $1.8B provider of payment solutions trades 25.75X Earnings, 4.25X Sales and 31.2X FCF. EPAY expects 6% topline growth in FY20 and 10% in FY21. EPAY is a small player in large and growing markets targeting 15-20% annual subscription and transaction growth and 86% recurring. Digital Banking and Legal Spend are two key focuses. EPAY is growing at a strong rate while also seeing strong profitability, and at its small market cap would make a nice acquisition target. Its Paymode-X is the largest electronic payment network for businesses. Analysts have an average target of $52 and short interest is low at 2% of the float. Barrington with a $62.5 target out recently seeing shares undervalued and the recent buyback news validates that opinion. Craig Hallum upgraded to Buy last month with a $52 target after the earnings report, seeing a re acceleration of revenue and booking growth. Hedge Fund ownership dipped 16.75% in Q2 filings.

Hawk Vision:

Hawk's Perspective: EPAY has a clear recent low to trade against and on a speculative basis I continue to see it as a nice acquisition target with its small market cap, accelerating growth, and operating in a large and growing market.

Atlas Air Call Buys on China Trade Deal Hopes

Ticker/Price: AAWW ($28.75)

Analysis:

Atlas Air (AAWW) aggressive buy 1800 November $30 calls up to $2.45, working out of a base to start the week, trading 8X daily call volume. AAWW will next report results in late October. Shares recently hit the lowest level in a decade, and the $705M provider of aircraft services trades 5X Earnings, 3.2X FCF and 6X EV/EBITDA. AAWW's Board Chairman passed away in August. AAWW short interest is 8.3% of the float. Cowen on 8-2 lowered its target to $50 from $68 noting the significant impact by trade tensions and tariffs resulting in slowing volumes and declines in pricing, and could see a strong recovery on any positive outcomes in trade negotiations. AMZN owns a large stake in AAWW and Stifel out in November seeing Amazon likely extending its contract for 20 planes, and notes there has been speculation of a full takeover from Amazon. Hedge Fund ownership fell 31.65% in Q2 filings.

Hawk Vision:

Hawk's Perspective: AAWW is speculative on the outcome of China, and valuation appears to be over-discounting the situation, an interesting one to trade against recent lows.

Bulls Active in Financial Leader, Voya

Ticker/Price: VOYA ($52.10)

Analysis:

Voya Financial (VOYA) buyer of 2000 November $55 calls for $1.55 and follows 3,000 of the October $55 calls bought to open on Friday. Shares are working out of three-week base after pulling back to the 200-MA with room back to 52-week highs around $57.50. Longer-term, VOYA shares forming the right shoulder of a nearly 1-year cup and handle which targets a long-term move to $72.50. The $7.15B asset manager trades 8.22X earnings, 0.8X sales, and 0.73X book with a 1.2% yield. VOYA is targeting 12.8% and 11.99% EPS growth with a return to positive sales momentum up 2.7%. The company is coming off a strong quarter with double-digit growth in employment benefits premiums and positive flows into investment management. The company is also executing well on a capital deployment plan including over $235M in buybacks. VOYA has $11/share in cash on hand and in March the CEO expressed interest in M&A, especially something which could expand their International distribution footprint. Analysts have an average target for shares of $59. BTIG with a $59 PT in May citing higher cost savings than expected from their efficiency plan and on track for $250M by the end of 2020. The firm thinks VOYA is under-valued relative to peers and more likely to be targeted for a takeout given management's shift away from lower-growth, riskier and more capital-intensive business. Short interest is 9.5% and unchanged since early 2018. Hedge Fund ownership fell 3.4%. Samlyn Capital the top holder with 2.2M shares while Gillson Capital and Carlson Capital also with notable positions. Greenlight also with a smaller position. In August, a director bought stock at $49.30 and also in June they bought shares at $51.26. In May 2018, the CEO bought $700k in stock at $50.25.

Hawk Vision:

Hawk's Perspective: VOYA just made a big move out of its base and still somewhat leery of Financials giving he rate environment, so not looking at play at this level.

Large Put Buyer in MSC Industrial on Slowing Growth

Ticker/Price: MSM ($70)

Analysis:

MSC Industrial (MSM) with an aggressive buyer of 2,700 December $75 puts today from $6.80 to $7.80 to open, more than 30X average volume and by far the largest position in open interest. Shares have been in a weak trend since February and rebounding over the last two weeks back into YTD VPOC and the falling 50-day MA. A move lower targets $65 and recent lows and then a measured move to $55 and the 2015/2016 lows. The $3.86B company trades 12.89X earnings, 1.15X sales, and 35X FCF with a 4.3% yield. MSM expects 3.5% EPS growth next year with revenue growth slowing from 5% to 3.2%. MSM is coming off a weak quarter with continued contraction in margins and organic growth slowing. Management called out weakness in July in a number of end-markets including automotive, oil and gas, and agriculture, especially in the Midwest. They also noted that recent tariff escalations came not only larger than expected but as more of a surprise than prior, so could see a multi-quarter impact on the customer side while MSM has also indicated they're pushing back price hikes which could continue to impact profitability. Analysts have an average target for shares of $79 with 2 buy ratings and 8 hold. Northcoast downgrading to Neutral on 7-12 with a $74 PT. The firm sees indications of higher competition in a deteriorating industrial environment weighing on shares. William Blair downgrading earlier this Summer citing the intermediate-term impact of slowing global trade volumes, durable goods orders, inventory growth, and a stronger US dollar. Short interest is 4.3% and up from around 2.8% in June. Hedge Fund ownership rose 5.67% in Q2. Vulcan Value is a top holder.

Hawk Vision:

Hawk's Perspective: MSM fits the mold for a name to be short, outside of cheap valuation, the fundamentals here are deteriorating and shares are in a firm downtrend.
