Market Review: Stocks held overnight gains and surged to fresh highs early after the PPI number also showed a sharp slowdown in inflationary pressures. Breadth came a bit off highs midday as indices hit key resistance levels for what has been a major rally off the lows and likely in need of resting. Energy and Metals led for the first time in a while and Retail was also strong with Banks, signs of sector rotations into extended moves and the sharp move higher in Yields also a factor. Recent standout groups like solar and software faded with the move in bonds. As sentiment has rebounded we are now in a mode of waiting for things to set back up next week into OpEx. We do not have any major reports on the schedule tomorrow which could give an excuse for markets to continue to settle into the weekend. Energy names re breaking out strong to close the week and could reignite inflation fears.

FEATURED OPTIONS RADAR REPORT

Bullish Put Sales in Quick Service Restaurant with Upside to Estimates

Ticker/Price: QSR ($59.9)

Analysis:

Restaurant Brands (QSR) seeing some large opening put sales this week with 2000 each of the January 2023 and January 2024 $57.50 puts sold to open for over $2M premium on 8/9 and then on 8/10 the Jan. 2024 $60 puts sold to open 500X for $400,000. QSR also has some September $60/$55 bull risk reversals sitting in open interest while October $57.50 and January $60 short call open interest. QSR shares last week broke out of a one-year downtrend and also cleared VWAP off June 2021 highs with MACD in the bull zone on the weekly and weekly RSI above 60. The $61.75 level is a 61.8% Fibonacci that lines up with a nasty reversal candle from April. QSR has made strategic acquisitions and now owns key brands Tim Hortons, Burger King, Popeyes and Firehouse Subs as one of the World's largest quick-service names with 29,000 restaurants in 100 countries. QSR has a market cap of $26.5B and trades 18X Earnings, 4.3X Sales and 45.25X FCF with a 3.65% yield. Forecasts see revenues rising 11.7% this year before returning to 4-5% annual growth with EPS growth seen in the 7-10% range. QSR is coming off a quarter with strong Tim Horton's numbers along with strength in Burger King international markets. Burger King US is working on improving operations and more details expected in September. Analysts have an average target of $61 with short interest low at 3.8% of the float. Argus upgraded to Buy on 7/26 saying the company's e-commerce capabilities, investments in its franchises, strong loyalty program, and international expansion will benefit earnings. Argus added that Restaurant Brands' menu simplification should improve order accuracy and increase throughput while boosting restaurant-level margins. Deutsche Bank raised its target to $70 following the report. 3G holds a $7.7B stake and Pershing Square with a $1.4B stake while Edgepoint also a concentrated holder.

Hawk Vision:

Hawk's Perspective: QSR extended short-term and if comes down to the 200-MA near $56 for a retest and below the put strikes, looks like a solid value/yield own with upside to 75.

Casual Dining Name Sees Bearish Flow Ahead of Earnings

Ticker/Price: EAT ($31.15)

Analysis:

Brinker Int'l (EAT) on 8/8 saw an unusual put buyer of 1060 September $30 puts at $2.35 and this follows last month's large buy of 3,900 October $20/$15 put spreads at about $1.40, over $500k bought in a name that does not get much options action most of the time. Earnings are due on 8/24 and these flows might be looking for the stock to pull back off the recent rally as consumer discretionary and retail still faces challenges into the end of summer. Shares are back over 30 after bottoming out near the 22 level in July which was a key VPOC from 2020 providing support. The stock now rallying back to 21-week EMA and the YTD VWAP just overhead at 33 likely some stiff resistance on the initial test. EAT is also seeing a 21/55 EMA bull cross as both moving averages converge near 27 so a potential support zone down there on a move lower into earnings. The $1.3B company trades 8.0x earnings, 0.6x EV/sales, FCF yield of +14.0% and a dividend yield at 4.4%. Revenues are expected to grow +14% in FY22 and +5% growth in FY23 estimated. Brinker is an owner, operator and franchisor of the Chili's Grill & Bar and Maggiano's Little Italy restaurant brands, as well as certain virtual brands, including Its Just Wings. In May the company announced a new CEO, Kevin Hochman, who comes from Yum Brands where he led KFC US. Average analyst target is $39 with a Street high of $67 and low of $26. Goldman downgraded the stock on 7/18 to Neutral from Buy and slashed its price target to $28 from $46 citing greater risk for same-store-sales trends at both Chili's and Maggiano's to decelerate as the macro environment deteriorates. In addition, incremental gains from Brinker's digital brands, It's Just Wings and Maggiano's Italian Classics, may be harder to achieve in a more cost-sensitive environment for consumers and they expect the stock could be volatile as estimates reset. Morgan Stanley also lowered its target to $26 recently from $37 and expected softening sales as consumers face rising pressures. On average, they cut restaurant full-service estimates by 5% for 2022 and 11% for '23 and cut fast casual estimates by about 2% in each year. Short interest is at 11.9% and has risen 23% in the last 3 months. Hedge fund ownership fell 1.4%.

Hawk Vision:

Hawk's Perspective: EAT has bounced a long way so potential to see a reversal candle near YTD VWAP at 33 with close above 200 EMA at 34.50 being a stop level if shorting.

Opening Put Sales Look for Floor at Current Levels for Regional Bank

Ticker/Price: PNC ($171.77)

Analysis:

PNC Financial (PNC) on 8/10 saw a few large opening put sales in the November $150 puts sold 2000x at $3.40 and the Nov $170 puts sold 725x at $9.30, both sales totaling over $1.45M in premium sold and looking for current levels to be a floor into year end. This follows a January $160 ITM call buyer the day prior for 550 contracts bought at $15.70, nearly $900k. PNC also has large, short puts in open interest from sellers in Jan $170 puts at 15.90 back in May and Jan $165 puts sold to open at $11.80 looking confident at these levels. Shares are forming a larger base the past 3 months between the 150-165 range and now clearing above 170 this week with bank strength. 200 EMA just overhead at 176 so potential to see a pullback first to the top of monthly value at 165 and play a rebound off that support. On the upside the YTD VWAP at 181 is a solid target and has a yearly 2021 VPOC up further at 190. Long term the weekly chart looks poised to regain yearly value and bullish MACD cross confirming a bottom at the recent lows. The $70.5B company trades 10.8x earnings, 3.1x EV/sales, ROE of 13.4% and a dividend yield at 3.6%. Revenues are expected to grow +9% in FY22 and +10% growth in FY23 estimated. The Company has businesses engaged in retail banking, including residential mortgage, corporate and institutional banking and asset management. Its retail branch network is located coast-to-coast. Average analyst target is $198 with a Street high of $240. Morgan Stanley last month raised its price target to $180 from $168 mainly reflecting a higher net interest margin as well as higher average loan balances. Barclays a bull on the name with a $222 target and Overweight rating citing the company's Q2 earnings were ahead, driven by higher than expected fee income while expenses were controlled. PNC saw an insider buy on 5/6 for 2000 shares at $167.07, over $334k in open market purchases and largest insider buy since March 2020. Short interest is at 1.3%. Hedge fund ownership rose 7.8%.

Hawk Vision:

Hawk's Perspective: PNC has support at the 165 level which is monthly value high and 21/55 EMA zone so a pullback to there offers a good long entry or selling the Nov $165/155 put spreads as a play.
